

Nature Frames

Activity

Use a piece of cardboard, a photo frame or make your own nature frame.

Ask your learners to put their nature frame on a patch of ground in front of them and focus on the ground it frames. They should study it for a few minutes and then consider:

- What do they see within their frame?
- What did their spot remind them of?
- Would they ever find this exact place again? If so, how?

Nature Frame Gallery

Put up some rope or string in a spot with natural features and create a nature art walk. With your help, have your learners “frame” a spot they find beautiful or interesting. With clothes pins, hang up the nature frames throughout the space and have students name what they see through the nature frame. Once all frames have been hung up, go on a nature art walk, having students describe what they have framed.
